New York, July 5.—The Red Sox and Cubs loomed up as dark horses in the two major league races last week.

New York, leading the National League, was outpaced by Chicago, who, with a couple of games to spare, gained a firm hold on second place, and displayed a driving power that, if kept up, will make the team a dangerous contender for honors so long held by the Mets.

Boston, coming fast from behind in the American League struggle, pulled the Athletics' lead down to little more than a shade, beating them four games in five, and then played Washington to a tie, which will force a series.

Aside from Chicago, no National League club now seems in position to give the Giants a battle for the lead.

Cincinnati started the week well with a double victory over Pittsburgh, but dropped to second place last week, following up the week by losing two to sixth place. St. Louis did fairly well, but mostly at the expense of the Reds and Pirates.

Aside from Chicago, Brooklyn made the best showing, again outbatting the other clubs. Robinson's men are too far down, however, to be prominent contenders in the immediate future. Philadelphia was hit hard by the Giants' attack and fell to seventh.

The American League race is fast closing in on the end for any one of the six clubs to work to the top by a fast-taken winning spurt. Detroit has worked to within a little more than a game and a half of the leaders, the Washington Senators, who are in the Philadelphia series, moved up at the expense of New York, and held its ties with Boston, being now only four games removed from the top.

Bright as seen Boston's chances are, however, the prospect of the White Sox are not to be overlooked. St. Louis has lost ground, but is still closely grouped into the running.

The only teams without a chance are the New Yorks and the Cleveland.

A crucial series between Chicago and Indianapolis featured the Federal League contest in the new season. In the weeks the Hoosier team had held the lead, but Chicago kept right at their Tinker's men within half a game of the lead. Chicago then went to Indianapolis, and by winning three out of four games, took the lead and held it.
